

Dear Bachelor of Management student,

As you may have seen from recent news, the conditions we are facing in the upcoming term remain very uncertain. They have changed markedly over the last month or so, and are likely to change significantly over the coming weeks. We are doing our utmost to adapt to those conditions and changes as effectively and quickly as possible.

Everyone in the Faculty has been working closely together to fulfill our responsibility to provide as effective a learning environment in the management subject area as possible. Uppermost in our minds is our continued commitment to all students' learning, whatever the conditions. Our aim is to accommodate the full range of learning needs that have arisen from the difficult and changing circumstances that we all find ourselves in, and to do so based on inclusion.

We will update and share with you any developments and changes as they occur. For information about a particular course in which you are registered, please continue to check Canvas. If the delivery format for a particular course changes, an email communication from the Faculty's Academic Programs Office will be sent to all students registered in the course, and the delivery mode for the course will be updated in the SSC Course Schedule.

Please note, if you are taking a course offered by another Faculty and have questions about the course or the delivery mode, you should contact that Faculty directly.

You may have also seen recent announcements regarding proof of COVID-19 vaccination to access a range of activities, such as indoor ticketed sporting events, and fitness centres. There is more information on those requirements at:

<https://broadcastemail.ubc.ca/2021/08/23/announcement-of-bc-vaccine-card-for-specific-activities/>.

As always, if you have any questions or concerns, please reach out via fom.bmgt@ubc.ca.

Best,

Roger
